As our German friends would say, the Attorney General will MacVeagh for Judge Howe.

The reports are conflicting in regard to the position ex-Senator Howe will get in the cabinet. It will be either the Interior department or the Attorney-Generalship.

Among all the temperance men in the State, there is no more moderate than General Rusk. But temperance does not seem to be the thing the Prohibitionists are after.

Two years ago Mr. A. K. Hamilton, of Fond du Lac, purchased a tract of pine land on the upper Wolf river for $50,000. Last week he sold the same tract to a match company of Oshkosh for $100,000 cash.

The Democrats in Ohio have not got over their defeat two weeks ago. They not only lost the governorship, but the leaders did not get much of Bookwalter's money. This last failure is what they are mad about.

While the Republicans of New York are working in harmony for a victory—which they will win—the Democrats keep on fighting among themselves. The Democratic party of New York is not in its normal condition unless it is fighting itself.

Congressman John B. Clark, of Missouri, fell into domestic difficulty, and thereby got such a rough handling by the newspapers, that he could not conscientiously retain his seat in the House, and has returned to Missouri to tender his resignation to the Governor of that State.

It is pretty well settled that in the reconstructed cabinet ex-Senator Howe will find a comfortable seat. He wants it, and being one of the most conspicuous of the Grant and Conkling faction, and withal having many qualifications which fit him for a cabinet position, he will probably be called to the department of the Interior.

One of the best of all speakers in the House of Representatives is Florence F. Page, of California. He is now serving his fifth term in Congress. He went to California in 1851, and became a sort of a mail contractor and stage driver. He soon earned the reputation of being one of the most skillful managers of six-in-hand to be found in the mountains of that State. He was so full of energy, enterprise, and common sense, that he became well known, and very popular, and was elected to Congress in 1872, and has been re-elected four times since. Although he received nothing but a common school education, and spent several years in driving stage over the California mountains, he is a very valuable member of Congress. He speaks well, is well-informed on all public questions, and in personal influence is very strong. There is no item going the rounds of the press to the effect that a few weeks ago, Congressman Page was in San Francisco, when he saw a runaway horse on Montgomery street. The reins were tangled around the legs of a boy who was being dragged along over the stone. Another boy was hanging from the shafts of the wagon. People generally would have rushed out toward the horse, and yelled and waved their hats at him, but Mr. Page knew better than that. When the animal got opposite to him he made a leap for the horse's head and mounted directly upon it, seized the bridle, stopped the horse, and saved the boys.

THE ABANDONED WHITE HOUSE.
President Arthur is now living in the house built by Ben Butler seven years ago, and now leased by Senator Jones, of Nevada. It is just south of the capitol across the street, and is a very convenient place in which to do executive business. The White House has been abandoned for the present. The household goods belonging to the Garfield family have been boxed up and sent to Ohio, and a force of workmen are trying to put this historic building in decent repair. It is said that President Arthur will occupy it during the latter part of November. It has been suggested many times that the White House should be permanently abandoned on account of the unhealthfulness of the location, and a new building erected on the high grounds east of the capitol. As proud and magnificent as the old White House is, it is said to be in a very bad condition. Of course the rooms are tidily carpeted, the walls elegantly decorated, the ceilings artistically frescoed, and the entire building lavishly furnished, but still it is the habitation of rats. It is an historic fact that during the administration of President Hayes the rats became so numerous that they were a source of great annoyance. They would get into the flames, from there into the chimneys, and then run down into the sleeping apartment of the President, and oftentimes the President of the United States has been compelled to leap from his bed and drive the rats out of his room! This would make a ridiculous and laughable cartoon—the President in his night-dress chasing rats—but it is true to the letter.

Washington should have been built on the high plateau east of the capitol. The city would then have been comparatively free from the malaria which now overhangs the lower part of Washington, especially in the neighborhood of the White House, the State, War, Navy, and Treasury departments. The city would have been built on the high ground in the first place but General Washington owned all the land east of the capitol on which the original city was laid out, and put such a high price on the lots that settlers were forced to buy lower down. The father of his country was a great land speculator, and a hard man to deal with, and persons who bought land of him were generally "bled." By the way, James Parton, the eminent biographer, who has written more lives than any other author in the country, and who stooped so low as to write the life of Dan Butler, refused to write the life of such a man as General George Washington. Parton once went to the city of Washington for the material for the life of that great man, and spent some time down in Virginia where Washington was raised, and where he lived many years, but he found that he had had so many law suits with his neighbors and had oppressed the poor so much that hardly a descendant of the proscribed and persecuted, could say a good word for the father of his country. Parton abandoned writing a life of Washington, declaring he wanted a "better subject for a book."

THE CAMPAIGN.
There is perfect quiet in the ranks of the Democratic party in this State. They have nothing to do but to stand still and take defeat. The well organized and compact Democratic party of twenty-five years ago, has passed away, and a little shivered up and disconsolate party has taken its place. The Democrats are in no better condition now than they were two years ago when Governor Smith defeated the most polished, able, and popular Democrat in the State by 25,000 majority. There is no end of a Democratic party in Wisconsin. The people are tired of the name and have lost all confidence in the men who have tried to manage the party. The still hunt recommended by the Democratic State committee, and gladly accepted by the Democratic candidates and the leaders, shows that the party has not the courage to take the field boldly and openly face the Republican party and the issues in the campaign.

The Republican ticket will be elected by a large majority. The very names of the gentlemen on the ticket are a guarantee that the administration of the State government will be judicious, wise, economical, and honest. They will follow in the footsteps of the administration for the past four years, and give the people that service which is a credit to the party and an honor to the State. The Republican voters will see to it that no side issues will defeat the Republican ticket. The more practical temperance workers in the State are doing good service for the Republican party. They do not propose to be deluded into the scheme of giving the Democrats assistance by voting the Prohibition ticket. While the friends of the Prohibition ticket may succeed in casting from 5,000 to 8,000 votes, they cannot thereby gain any substantial ground, neither will they be able to throw the election into the hands of the Democrats.

The right is with the Republicans and the strength is on their side. By simply turning out to vote on the day of election, the victory will be overwhelming for General Rusk, and the rest of the ticket. But because the party is strong and victory sure, is no reason why any Republican should think his individual vote is not needed. There is danger sometimes in lulling into too much confidence, and many political battles have been lost because the voters would not turn out in full force.

Let the Republicans of Old Rock, whose victories have been an honor to the intelligence and patriotism of the country, see to it that the Republican majority for General Rusk will be one of the largest that ever crowned the work of the Republicans.

WASHINGTON.

Special to the Gazette.
WASHINGTON, October 24.—The French and German guests went to Annapolis to-day escorted by Secretary Blaine and Hitt. They will return this evening.

The nomination of E. D. Morgan, of New York, as Secretary of the Treasury, was the only cabinet nomination sent to the Senate to-day.

J. E. Shober, Chief Clerk, was declared acting Secretary of the Senate until the vacancy is filled.

In executive session Morgan's nomination was confirmed after considerable opposition on account of his commercial relations.

ARREARS OF PENSIONS.

WASHINGTON, October 23.—Much complaint has been made of late on the part of certain parties that the sums allowed under the arrears of pension bills were growing to enormous proportions entirely beyond what was contemplated by the framers and advocates of the law. In short, there seems to be a disposition to blame the pension office for the accruing of enormous sums under a bill which provided for the payment of those sums. The deficiency this year will amount to about $23,000,000, and people interested are astounded at the growth of these claims and the expense that is being entailed upon the government. Colonel Dudley, Commissioner of Pensions, says that not ought this deficiency to have been expected, but that the expense will show a large increase before it begins to decrease again. The regular annual pension roll amounted this year to $30,000,000. There will be 40,000 claims adjudicated and bottled this year. At each thousand claims averages about $1,000,000, the amount of arrears since the war, added to the amount allowed for this year, it will cost $10,000,000 to settle these claims. Thus there will be a demand for $70,000,000 this year.

THE TREASURY SCANDAL.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—The so-called suppressed report upon the custodian's office in the treasury department, called for by Sherman, will be read to-morrow in the Senate. It will be a disappointing document, being mainly an exposition of the illegality of the office of custodian. Upton, French and Powers made replies and explanations in regard to their connection with the transactions investigated, and these will be of more interest. The testimony taken will undoubtedly be called for. This is very voluminous. It was taken stenographically and covered 2,000 pages of foolscap, nearly all of it being given under oath. It is said to have taken a very wide range, and to be a kind of a grab-bag where something can be found with reference to every scandal of the Treasury for the past ten years.

STAR ROUTE CASES.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Wicked men are insinuating wicked things about the weakness of the government's case in the star-route trials. The fact that Mr. Cooke, who represents the government, failed to bring the cases before the June term of the court, refused Mr. Brady's demand for a trial in July, failed to bring the Government's evidence before the grand jury, failed to be on hand two weeks since, and failed to be ready a week since when Ingalls desired to argue the cases, has left a very bad impression, and hints to the public mind that either the cases are weak or the government needs a new prosecutor. It is Brady's contention, that Mr. McVeagh's reason for desiring to leave the cabinet was to "shake" the star route cases in whose strength he has no faith. It is known that before the death of President Garfield he grew very impu-tient over the delays and hoped that the investigation would not render his administration ridiculous by such glib cry and so little wool.

WAUPUN PRISON.

The Officials of Wisconsin's Penitentiary Charged with Gross Carelessness and Mismanagement.

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 23.—The numerous escapes of prisoners from the State's prison, at Waupun lately, has caused many people to believe that the institution is grossly mismanaged, and numerous reports to that effect have been put in circulation lately. A reporter sent to investigate the charges of mismanagement telegraphed to-night that all of the escapes have occurred through "the negligence or carelessness of N. P. Jones, the Deputy Warden, who has been relieved within the last week by the Warden, Colonel Carter. It appears that Warden H. N. Smith was removed to make room for Colonel Carter on purely political grounds. Everything was well under the new management for the first eighteen months. Warden Carter then discharged Deputy White, who really had the practical management of the institution, and who was an old and trusted official, to make room for Jones, who, it seems, had political claims on the new management. Since then everything has been going wrong, and the discipline of the prisoners is now reported very bad. Upon investigation it is found that the last three prisoners who escaped were working in gangs under Deputy Jones, and that their escape was due to utter carelessness on his part. This fact finally became so apparent to the warden, and the indignation of citizens of Waupun was so great, that Jones had to go. It is evident that a searching investigation will soon be made by the State board of control. Col. Carter denies the charges of gross mismanagement, and courts an investigation. Citizens of Waupun and underofficials intimate that an investigation will unearth a state of rotteness that will stir the State from end to end.

VICE-PRESIDENT DAVIS.

Noting the Effects.

R. Gibbs, of Buffalo, N. Y., writes: "Hearing your Burdock Blood Bitters favorably spoken of, I was induced to watch their effects, and find that in chronic diseases of the blood, liver and kidneys, your Bitters have been signally marked with success. I have used them myself with best results, for torpidity of the liver; and in the case of a friend of mine suffering from dropsy, the effect was marvelous." Price $1.00, trial size 10 cents.

Crowell, of Minnesota, deputy sixth auditor; John Crumb, of Minnesota, register of the land office, Crookston, Minn.; Geo. W. Wilkinson, of Nebraska, Indian agent at the Omaha and Winnebago agency, Neb.; Frank M. Kirby, postmaster at St. Joseph, Mo.; Captain Montgomery Seward, chief of the bureau of ordinance and supply department; Captain John G. Walker, chief of the bureau of navigation. Commodores—James H. THE SNY LEVEE.

St. Louis, Oct. 23.—The latest advices from the Sny Levee are that another break has taken place eleven miles below Hannibal, and it is said that only about six of sixty miles of land protected by the levee is now under water. The river below the break is now about seven miles wide, dotted here and there with farm houses, many of which are submerged and all the corn crop is ruined. The corn crop on the island and adjacent bottoms were especially fine, owing to the overflow last spring, but it is nearly all lost now, and a large part of the wheat and oat crop is destroyed.

OBITUARY.

Death of Henry Stewart, the Harrisburg Insured Negro.
HARRISBURG, Pa., Oct. 23.—Henry Stewart, a negro, aged about 83 years, who, at one time was insured for $125,000, died last night in this city. Last summer Stewart came near dying, and the symptoms of his disease strongly indicated poisoning. His illness was due to eating whiskey adulterated with strychnine. Several of the persons who had policies on his life are said to have given liquor-vendors orders to give him all the whiskey he wanted, and charge the amount to them. This is about all he received for allowing himself to be insured. The relatives of the old man intend to enjoin the companies in which he has been insured from paying to the men who had policies on his life.

SUDDEN DEATH.

MADISON, Ws., Oct. 22.—Mary Ann Davis, the woman who attempted to commit suicide last month by cutting her throat with a razor at the residence of George Huntington, near Plattville, Grant county, died a few days ago at the home of her brother-in-law, Joseph Hughes, in Belmont. Her death was sudden, and in the opinion of the physician who was attending her, was caused by heart disease, the wounds she had inflicted on herself having very nearly healed.

YORKTOWN VISITORS.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Oct. 23.—Officials and citizens gave a hearty reception to-day to Connecticut's Governor and troops returning from Yorktown. The military review was postponed till to-morrow at the request of the visiting corps.
